

FAUX WOOD #2

by Nikki Killinger

You will need:

Tando Creative 3D Round Basket

I started by laying all the pieces out flat, and painting both sides with tinting base. Some Crackle paint was added in thin patches, following the 'grain' in one direction.

Paint was brayered, again in one direction only, in two colours, (a mixed up blue with Cobalt Blue Hue & Tinting base, and then a slightly watered down burnt umber. This gives the appearance of weathered wood. It's also nice as some of the white still shows through, to give it another dimension.

I also added with a dry brush, some touches of Blue Green, to look more like beach hut painted wood.

'Screws' were added by painting Tando elements in burnt Umber & Pyrrole Orange, and some Quin Gold added as a rust 'drip'

I ran my fingers down all the edges of each panel with Burnt Umber before assembling, to make it look more like planks of wood.

The whole piece was finished with a few coats of Ultra Matte Varnish, to protect the board and screws.
